

Elephant Watch Camp Samburu is perched on the banks of the Ewaso Nyiro River, beneath wide-spreading Kigelia and Acacia elatior trees. It is home to some of the largest elephant bulls in Samburu who can often be spotted cooling down in the river bed, resting in the shade, or picking up seed pods beside the tents. Elephant Watch Camp is very much geared towards elephant research and conservation, and is closely linked with Save the Elephants famous for pioneering work with conservation throughout East Africa.

Accommodation and Meals

Elephant Watch Camp is totally eco friendly, and maintains a very low footprint on the environment – there is no waste, no pollution, no noise. Elephant Watch Camp has six eco-tents all of which have en-suite bathrooms with bucket showers as well as a private veranda which enjoys fantastic views.

Tents here are colourful and comfortable, with bathrooms built around trees, giving guests a unique showering experience. Each of Elephant Watch's specialized guide know all of the elephant families by name and personality, making for an absolutely unique and magical elephant experience. The Samburu warriors will also take guests on bush walks along well trampled elephant paths, collecting medicinal plants or honey as you go. Sometimes you can witness the great river crossings of the Samburu's camels and cattle, and see the true culture of this beautiful nomadic tribe.
